

Ashley's Counseling Corner

SATURDAY, APRIL 30, 2011

SCHOOL'S OUT FOREVER! (maybe)

After what seems like an eternity, school has finally come to an end. While I may continue on, I'm taking a much needed break. Graduation is only one week away! Click on the link below to see all the coursework I've been working on this semester.

<http://stu.westga.edu/~aalexan7/medt6401/>

Posted by The Duchess at 1:12 PM 0 comments

FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 2011

"Do we really need to know this stuff Mrs. Ashley?"

Today in class, I led a classroom guidance lesson on careers to a group of 1st grade students. They had such a great time coming up with all types of careers, and believe me there were some silly ones! We talked about everything from astronaut to zoo keeper. Once all of the students chose a career (its so hard to pick just one!) we talked about what types of things you would need to know if you found yourself in that profession one day. We even talked about how recess just might come in handy one day! I hope that after talking about how important school is, the kids will buckle down and finish the year strong!

Posted by The Duchess at 1:01 PM 0 comments

Labels: Classroom Guidance

Home

Subscribe to: Posts \(Atom\)

FOLLOWERS

BLOG ARCHIVE

- ▼ 2011 (2)
- ▼ April (2)
- SCHOOL'S OUT FOREVER! (maybe)
- "Do we really need to know this stuff Mrs. Ashley?..."

ABOUT ME

View my complete profile

