Have you ever created podcasts?	Where did/do you host them?	How to you advertise/feed them to your audience?
11/11/2010 15:37:35	High school	Spanish	My favorite tech tool for teaching this year is wikispaces. I think it is a fun and useful way for students to learn and practice using online discussion boards, and it is easy to manage.	I use email and microsoft word, as well as on online gradebook and class website.		The county hosts the grade book and the website on their server. The students have access to computers with MS word at school in the Media Center, as well as in 3 computer labs.

Where do I host the lessons? In the media center and sometimes in the computer lab, where I collaborate with the computer lab teacher.
